Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contains Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Sold by druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

The Court Wrestles With Their Jail Contract—The Matter in a Considerable Wind.

Quite a lively discussion got up in the county court last Monday when the question of building the new jail came up for consideration. There were but two firms on the ground offering bids on the jail, Messrs. McDonald Bros., of Louisville, and Mr. Landrum, representing the Panly Jail Building and Manufacturing Company, of St. Louis. The latter firm are steel jail builders, and could not get in a competing bid with McDonald Bros., they claimed, because they were informed by the jail committee appointed by the court to let the contract, that their orders were confined to the building of a stone jail. It seems that the first intention of the court was to build a stone jail, as a reference to the orders in respect to the matter made last November will show. The first step taken then was the appointing of a committee consisting of Messrs. G. W. Beard, Matthias Miller, D. H. Severs and Morris Eckridge, who were directed to report the kind of a jail they deemed necessary and the probable cost of same. This committee conferred with Mr. McDonald, who was here, and who had previously exhibited to the court his plans for a stone jail, and the committee subsequently recommended the building of a stone jail with eight cells and jailer's residence attached. The report of the committee sets out the plans, specifications, etc., and is rather too voluminous to reproduce here; but it recommended that a stone jail was the character of structure desired.

The court adopted the committee's report and ordered them to advertise for bids for building a stone jail without reference to any other character of building. When the committee had advertised for bids the Panly Jail Works, of St. Louis, sent their agent here to put in a bid; but when he got here and went before the committee, it appears that they could not consistently entertain his bid from the fact that under previous action by the court they were to contract for a jail to be built of stone.

The committee then recognized the hampered situation in which they were placed, but followed instructions. Their report Monday was a lengthy one, and showed that they had contracted with McDonald Bros., subject to the approval of the court, for a stone jail, to cost $117,225. When the report was read and submitted for the court's rejection or approval, Mr. Landrum arose and asked to be heard on behalf of the Panly steel jail builders. Mr. Landrum asked the court to set aside their action heretofore in regard to directing their jail to be built of stone and allow all jail builders in the country to lay in bids. He claimed that he could build one of steel at a saving of seventeen hundred dollars less to the county than the price contracted with McDonald Bros. Mr. Landrum's remarks brought forth various opinions, and the matter seemed to take on an endless discussion at one time. Mr. McDonald was holding up his side of the case with a strong argument for fairness and candor with the committee, and contended that stone jails were equal to any in the world for durability and safety. He said his prices were reasonable, and he was only asking a fair profit on his work.

But there was a disposition on the part of many to believe, after hearing the statements of all concerned, that the court had gotten themselves into a pretty close twist by confining the contract to a stone jail and thus giving McDonald Bros. an undue advantage in the bidding. Notwithstanding McDonald's fairness and honesty for construction, etc., the mistake was in not making the bids so as to embrace all competitors. This was the sole question agitating the mind of the court when they adjourned Monday evening at 5 o'clock, having wrestled with it the best part of the day without any final action.

By Telephone to the News.

HARDINSBURG, Jan. 20.—The court met to-day and after considerable wrangling over the jail question, decided to accept committee's report and build a stone jail at a cost of $117,225, contract price. They first rejected the report, but afterwards reconsidered. The railroad tax was also levied at 60 cents on the $100 worth of property.

A Brilliant Wedding.

The immediate relatives and a few friends assembled at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. James Fairleigh, Thursday, Jan. 15th, at 4 p. m., to witness the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Allan, to Hon. Chapeze Wathen. The ceremony was pronounced by Father O'Connor in a most impressive manner. Miss Mary Allan, most beautiful, ever courteous, and at all times affable, looked her own charming self in a traveling dress of handsome brown broadcloth, trimmed in embroidery. She carried a lovely bouquet of bridal roses and hair ferns. Mr. Wathen, always dignified and self-possessed, was unusually handsome in a full dress suit of black. Immediately after congratulations the guests were ushered into the dining room, where a beautiful table, laden with delicacies, fruits and flowers, awaited them. The happy couple left forthwith, amid a chorus of rice, for Chattanooga, Tenn., and Asheville, N. C. The presents were many and very elegant, consisting of silverware and cut glass.

"There's a purple half to the purple grape,
And a sweeter half to the peach;
There's a warmer half to the human heart,
Which kindly deeds may reach;
There's a brighter half to this dreary world,
Where the skies are ever blue;
And a better half to every man,
Whose wife is good and true."

Big Suit by Wellford's Heirs Against Robt. E. Duncan, Henry Mason and the Cincinnati Co-operative Company—About $6,000 Involved.

A suit has been instituted in the Louisville Common Pleas Court against the above-named parties by the Wellford heirs for timber taken from a tract of land in Hancock county of some 500 acres belonging to them.

The Co-operative Company bought the white oak timber some time ago and worked it into staves. It bought the timber from Mason and Duncan, claiming to be agents of the owners.

The plaintiffs claim Mason and Duncan were not their agents, and sue for damages to the land in removing the timber. Mason and Duncan claim they were the duly authorized agents, and had been so recognized for several years, and that they have receipts and vouchers for all the money they ever received from the Co-operative Company and several tenants who occupy parts of the land and cultivate it; that the timber was sold to the company for a just price and they are in no sense delinquents and did not exceed their powers in selling timber off the land.

Messrs. Barnett, Miller & Barnett represent the plaintiffs, Messrs. David R. Murray and W. S. Morrison represent Duncan and Mason, and Judge J. A. Murray and Messrs. Fairleigh & Straus the Co-operative Company. All the parties have strong counsel and the case will be stubbornly fought on every part of the ground. Judge Murray and Messrs. David R. Murray and Morrison were at Louisville last week and entered a plea to the jurisdiction of the Common Pleas Court of that city, and a demurrer to the petition, which the court took under advisement.

Mr. Samuel L. Sulzer, of Cannelton, Ind., is well known and highly esteemed in the business circles of Cincinnati. He stands well with the bankers on third street, and wholesale merchants regard him as one of the best and most progressive merchants that come to this market from the banks of the lower Ohio.—Cincinnati Commercial.
